YOUNG MARTIN FOUND.

Left Livingston Park a Week Ago and Was Picked Up By Police at Coney Island.

Chief of Police Harding was instrumental on Saturday morning in having returned to Mrs. Frank Sarvitz, of Livingston Park, her 12-year-old son, John Martin, who disappeared from home about a week ago. For several days she had been almost prostrated on account of the absence of the boy, fearing he had been drowned, and she was made extremely happy when she learned he had been found. When he went away he wore only an undershirt and pair of trousers.

On Friday morning Chief Harding received a letter from Superintendent and Attorney Robert J. Wilkin, of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of No. 105 Schermerhorn street, that city, saying that he had in custody a boy named John Martin, 12 years old, who had been found in Coney Island some days before. He had said that he came from New Brunswick, that his parents were dead and that Lawrence Weber, the saloonkeeper, with whom he had lived, had sent him out into the world two weeks before to earn his living.

Chief Harding went down to see Weber. The latter said he knew the boy and that all of his story save the statement that he lived here was untrue. He said he said the boy was the son of Mrs. Sarvitz, who was a friend, and that he would at once notify her that he had been found. Weber immediately rode on his wheel to Livingston Park. Mrs. Sarvitz later came to this city and got a note from Chief Harding introducing her to Superintendent Wilkin.

She went to Brooklyn Saturday morning and took charge of the boy, and brought him back to town. Chief Harding received word on Saturday afternoon from Superintendent Wilkin, saying that the boy had been claimed and thanking the Chief for his prompt work.

WRECK AT DEANS.

Traffic Delayed Three Hours Yesterday Afternoon on Pennsylvania.

A freight wreck at Deans yesterday afternoon delayed traffic for three hours. A westbound freight was wrecked, a car jumping the track and colliding with an eastbound freight train, thus blocking all four tracks.

Six cars were wrecked and several others thrown off the rails. The local wrecking crew, with that from Trenton, cleared the wreck. Trains were sent around the Amboy division until the wreck was cleared. No trains passed through here between noon and 3 o'clock.

HEIRS OF THOMAS ESTATE.

An estate of $22,000, left by a rich relative of the Larkins family named Thomas, has been divided among the various heirs in this city and elsewhere. Beside Mrs. Sarah Larkins, of this city, those who receive a share are: E. Martin, of Perth Amboy; Frank Dunham and the children of the late Mrs. Hattie Dunham Skidmore.

Mrs. Larkins told a reporter that the share received by the heirs is much less than is generally supposed. A nurse of the deceased got half the estate. A valet got a lot more, and the expenses of settlement, she says, were large. The heirs say the amount is much less than it should have been.

Misses Helen McElroy and Mary Harkins were the guests of friends in New York City on Sunday.

WHEN THE RARITAN BURNED.

Fifty Years Ago Another Steamer Was Burned Like New Brunswick.

The burning of the steamer New Brunswick on Thursday night recalls to the minds of many old residents a similar accident which occurred more than fifty years ago, when the old Raritan was destroyed by fire in New York Bay.

The Raritan was a steambot which, like the New Brunswick, plied between this city and New York, making daily trips. She got afire in the bay on a trip one day and was quickly destroyed. Those who recall the incident do not remember that there was any loss of life.

Modes of communication were rather meagre at that time, however, and the people of the town after first hearing of the boat being afire, were kept in suspense for some time before they could learn whether there was any loss of life.

THE HONEST FARMER'S WAY.

And How He Had It in Connection With an Auto Accident.

A big gasoline automobile broke down on Saturday in front of the home of a resident of Woodbridge. The man who had been running it did not seem to know what the trouble was and tried in a dozen ways to start it. The engine would run all right, but the wheels would not move.

Meanwhile, the machine was filling the air with a fluttering, throbbing noise, painful to the ears of every body within hearing. The man who owns the house came out and begged the automobilist to stop the noise, but he refused, saying he could not tell what was wrong without running the engine.

"My wife is suffering from nervous prostration," said the farmer. "I'll get out a team and tow you to a repair shop if you will let up on that noise."

The man agreed, and the farmer hitched his team to the automobile with a rope and towed it far enough down the road to be out of hearing from the house.

"That's far enough," he said; "it's pretty heavy tugging for the horses and I guess I'll go back."

Then he untied the rope and left with the team. The auto was gotten in motion about three hours later under its own power.

BROOKLYN MAN HURT.

Injured by Jumping from Rapidly Moving Train.

Michael Sullivan, of No. 188 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, was seriously hurt near the roundhouse late Saturday by falling from a rapidly moving freight train. He was discovered helpless along the tracks at 2:30 o'clock by Lawrence Dyer, who is employed about the roundhouse.

Dyer heard a man groaning, and, making an investigation, found Sullivan. He had a deep gash over the right temple and at the right side of the mouth. Both lips were badly cut and two of his upper and two lower teeth had been knocked out. The case was reported to the police and Sullivan was taken to the hospital, where he was attended by Dr. S. V. D. Clark. Sullivan was able to tell how he came by his injuries, saying that he tried to jump off a rapidly moving train.

It was reported at the hospital this noon that Sullivan would probably recover from his injuries.

SUBMERSION IN JERSEY.

Flood Not Tall Enough, However, to Hide the Lofty Corn Crop.

The heavy storm last night flooded celars at Somerville and sent the Raritan River and its tributaries up to the danger point. A passenger train on the Central Railroad of New Jersey which arrived there from Washington ran over tracks submerged two feet. The cars of the Middlesex & Somerset Traction Company were stalled there. Main street, in Bound Brook, is under water. The storm damaged oats and other grain crops in the Raritan Valley. The continued wet weather has caused the early peach crop to rot on the trees.

The corn in that section, helped by the rain, has had phenomenal growth during the last month. J. T. Winchester has on his farm, one mile from Somerville, a fifty-acre field of corn, planted on May 6, which is over eleven feet tall.

Magenta Took Out Many.

The steambot Magenta, which has taken the place of the New Brunswick, took out a crowd of 400 excursionists to Coney Island yesterday. While the crowd was not as large as usual, it paid the steambot company well for conducting the trip. More than 100 persons went aboard of the boat at Sayreville.

Notwithstanding the storm, the boat got back to the city shortly after 9 o'clock, coming through the inside route. Many persons went down the river to view the wreck of the steamer New Brunswick.
